

Meet the ARCADIS Global Product Stewardship Team

We provide valued health, environmental, and regulatory services to multi-national corporations, industry associations, and government institutions around the world.

ARCADIS' Global Product Stewardship (GPS) team has a broad multi-discipline base. We are human health toxicologists, ecotoxicologists, industrial hygienists, chemists, statisticians and environmental fate modelers. Our diverse combination of health and environmental expertise, corporate-bred experience in chemical product management, and multi-national presence, are our unique strengths.

We provide strategic and technical support to evaluate the sustainability of products and processes at all stages of product lifecycle from raw material sourcing, manufacturing to marketing/use and disposal. The ARCADIS team understands the corporate challenge of developing and delivering valued chemical products in a competitive business climate. Our clients are committed to sound safety policies for their products and operations, and with our support, strive for full regulatory compliance across their global markets.

Global Presence

In total, about 100 staff members from ARCADIS US, Belgium, UK, Germany, France, Czech Republic, and Poland have worked with our GPS team. We have major offices in Ghent Belgium with 15 staff, and in Cincinnati Ohio in the US with 25 staff. In the US, our team extends to Detroit MI, Durham, NC, Boston MA, Racine WI, and Pittsburgh PA.

Our core team is supported by over 700 ARCADIS scientists and engineers in other related technological sectors in locations around the world. These sectors include facility and site risk assessment; site restoration and remediation, and water and wastewater engineering. Collectively, we possess skills to assist corporations in all stages of their product lifecycles.
